

Introduction Of The Pokedex Stats

David Rocendo

The concept of my site and the design of it is a very simple is a way to display Pokémon stats to the user. When people play a Pokémon game most gamers like to have a challenge and they play a nuzlock Pokémon games and they have to be really cared of what their Pokémon it weak to or their stats to understand when to use them. Most of the time this in this challenge if the Pokémon dies, they cannot relive them or use them anymore, so they have to be very careful. When looking at these site or watching people playing Pokémon, they usually take a long time to find the information and is not available to them right away. For my site I want to display this information to the user right away when looking for the Pokémon stats in a form of card and easier to read while also as effortless to search for a Pokémon. I will retrieve this data from several links of the same API that could fetch the data that I would like.
